In China, one of the first individuals to attempt a multi-dynastic history of the Great Wall was the 17th-century scholar Gu Yanwu. More recently, in the 1930s and 1940s, Wang Guoliang (王國光) and Shou Pengfei (壽彭飛) produced exhaustive studies that culled extant literary records to date and mapped the courses of early border walls. However, these efforts were based solely on written records that contain obscure place names and elusive literary references.

The Carboniferous Period (which began 359 million years ago) is known as the 'golden age of sharks'. An extinction event at the end of the Devonian killed off at least 75% of all species on Earth, including many lineages of fish that once swam the oceans. This allowed sharks to dominate, giving rise to a whole variety of shapes and forms.

The history of the kilt stretches back to at least the end of the 16th century. The kilt first appeared as the belted plaid or great kilt, a full length garment whose upper half could be worn as a cloak draped over the shoulder, or brought up over the head as a hood. The small kilt or walking kilt (similar to the 'modern' kilt) did not develop until the late 17th or early 18th century, and is ...

We like our history at the St Tudno Hotel (and why not!) and lots of seafront hotels in Llandudno have a lot to thank for the fact that we're busy year after year. One of those things is Llandudno itself. Llandudno is fantastic. This lovely holiday resort has been successful for year after year, and is a British seaside town that others can only look to emulate.

A Collectors Guide. The idea for an Official History of recent conflicts was first mooted in 1906 with regards to the recent War in South Africa and so with the advent of the Great War the idea was already in the minds of Government to make a detailed record of the current conflict. By late 1915 Battalion diaries were being collected and by the end of the War the ground work had already been laid which enabled the first volumes to appear soon after (Parts of the Munitions History had ...
